

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Harsh Chaudhry joined WAPCOS, a public sector undertaking under the Ministry of Water Resources, in March 2020. He worked under my supervision for over a year in the IT department where I witnessed his exceptional abilities and personal qualities. Harsh is focused in achieving professional excellence and I have enjoyed working with him.

He has shown an attitude towards self-learning, an essential quality for someone pursuing an MBA. Although not being from the field of IT, Harsh demonstrated adaptability for quick learning. He has worked on Android Studio software using Java (computer programming language) and also on Data Science by using machine learning algorithms to forecast weather.

Harsh has an analytical mind and uses a logical approach to work, and his intellectual curiosity sets him apart from his peers. His ability to work in a team is also commendable and his energy is unparalleled. However, I have advised Harsh not to be a perfectionist as there are times he goes too much into the intricacies and details of the task he is undertaking, which may hamper the timelines of high quality work.

Having witnessed his abilities, professionalism, learning mindset and contribution towards achieving his professional career, I feel proud to recommend him to your MBA program, as Harsh has the potential to excel in his future academic endeavours.
